C.W.S.F. Canvass Meets With Good Response

Business Men Donate Liberally; Canvass of Contractors' Employees Not Completed.

Canvassers J. A. Park and H. Houghton report good response from persons approached for donations to the Canadian War Services drive which started on Monday. The territory covered by these two gentlemen lies west of Central avenue to Carbondale.

Among the business houses canvassed, three gave ten dollars each. Employees of three contractors were not completely canvassed but this work is expected to be cleaned up this week.

The sickness of Alex. Easton has held up the canvass east of Central avenue but other canvassers will fill in and it is expected that this portion of the district will be completed within the next few days.

Jim McKay Donates $100 to War Services Drive

Canvassers Stigler and Emery Report Good Response. Meet With Only One Refusal.

Canvassers Mack Stigler and Fred Emery, of the Elks lodge, report good response to their canvass on behalf of Coleman War Services drive. Their district covered the lake and Sentinel power plant and the lime kiln.

The magnificent donation of $100 was received from Jim McKay of Sentinel power plant. This donation from a private individual is the largest recorded so far in the campaign and the local committee are most grateful for such a donation.

An additional $45 was received from the twenty odd employees of the plant and lime kiln and canvassers Stigler and Emery are highly pleased with the response received. There was only one refusal.

Miners Agree to Check-Off At Mines

Main Street and Sentinel District Being Canvassed; Committee Hopes For Good Response

Progress in the Canadian War Services drive in Coleman was made on Sunday when the miners' union agreed to allow voluntary contributions to be taken from their pay statements. A campaign committee had previously received permission from the companies to place canvassers at the mine and also to deduct all contributions from the pay statements at the companies' offices.

By canvassing at the two mines a door-to-door canvass is unnecessary and saves many hours of labor.

Canvass of the business district started Monday morning.

Canvass of the mines will be done either on Wednesday or Thursday of this week.

WORDS OF INSPIRATION

Thought A Day For A People At War

"It is up to us to see that the wheels of our war industry are kept turning to maximum capacity, to accept the sacrifices and readjustments that are necessary to feed the war machine and to do so ungrudgingly, to find the money to finance our effort and to give it with both hands, to sink out petty differences and present a united home front to our enemies."

Oliver Salvador Praised at B.C. Drama Festival

Took Part in School Play That Won Top Honors in British Columbia Drama Festival; Presented With Trophy By Mr. Zelznick.

Oliver Salvador, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Salvador, was highly honored a few weeks ago at Vancouver when he and a number of fellow students from Vancouver College won top honors with their play "Dust of the Road" which they entered and acted in the British Columbia Drama festival.

Oliver Salvador

Oliver, on behalf of the cast, received the trophy presented to the festival winners by Mr. Zelznick, producer of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer films of Hollywood. In presenting the trophy to Oliver, Mr. Zelznick stated:

"On last Tuesday I witnessed a play which impressed me very much and it gives me great pleasure now to be able to present an actor of that play with this trophy. I might also state that this boy impressed me very much and he is one of the few whom I have seen that could perform on the stage so naturally. It is with great pleasure that I present him with this trophy and congratulate him on his marvellous acting."

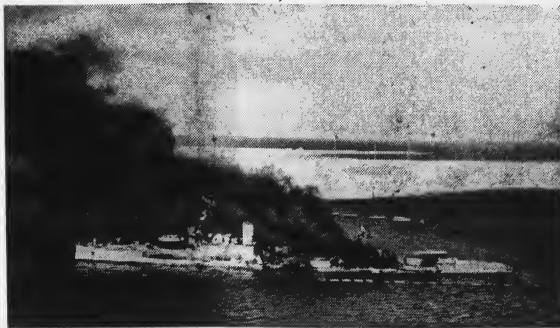

Vancouver College is located on the famous Shaughnessy Heights in the city of Vancouver. In its beautiful buildings there are accommodations for one hundred resident students and four hundred non-resident. Grades taught range from grade three to first year college. Extra curricular activities include music, public speaking, debating, dramatics, etc.

WEDDINGS

LILYA — DAVIS

A quite wedding was solemnized at the registrar's office Saturday evening, March 15, when Mr. Alexander Lilya of Coleman and Miss Jean Davis of Lundbreck were united in marriage. Mr. Victor Lilya, brother of the groom, and Mrs. Victor Lilya were the witnesses, and the wedding service was conducted by Rev. J. E. Kirk.

Lions Hear Address on Sugar Beets

Guest Speakers From Lethbridge; Plan Concert Wednesday, April 2.

Coleman Lions held their fortnightly banquet meeting in the Empire hotel on Monday evening, guest speakers being Phil Baker and Bing Knowlton, of Lethbridge Lions club.

Lion Knowlton in a brief address urged Coleman Lions to keep up their good work. He told of the accomplishments of other Lions clubs in southern Alberta and how they were appreciated in the community as a whole.

Phil Baker in addition to being an active Lion organizer is also president of the Alberta Sugar Beet Growers. He spoke on the sugar beet industry dealing with climatic conditions, fertilizer, and marketing. He estimated that the sugar beet crop put $5,000,000 of new wealth yearly into the district surrounding Lethbridge. In addition 70,000 head of sheep and cattle are fed from the by-products of the beets.

$13,000 had already been subscribed by sugar beet growers in the Canadian War Services campaign which only started this week. The money will be deducted from the beet growers' cheques on their 1941 crops. In the meantime the sugar company will advance the money to the national campaign fund committee.

Dr. Ross gave members final instructions regarding the concert featuring the Lethbridge male voice choir which will be held in the community hall on Wednesday, April 2. Tickets are now on sale at 35c each. Musical circles in Blairmore and Bellevue have asked for a number of tickets and the remainder will be sold locally. Net proceeds following deductions for miscellaneous expenses will be donated to the Coleman Canadian War Services drive. Ray Spillers is in charge of ticket sales.

CELEBRATES 71st BIRTHDAY

On Tuesday Mrs. Jack Houghton celebrated her 71st birthday. Members of her family showered her with gifts, and a family celebration will be held at her home on Sunday evening when all members will be present.

Mrs. Houghton, in company with her sons, Harold, Sidney, and Miss Hilda came to Coleman from St. Helens, Lancashire in 1911. Her husband and eldest son Ernie came to Coleman the year previously.

In 1935 the death occurred of Mr. Houghton, sr., he having been many years town policeman.

Assessment Notices to be Issued Next Month

Court of Revision May 20; 10% Rebate on Current Taxes To Be Allowed Till Aug. 30.

Regular meeting of the council, was held on Tuesday evening. Present Mayor Ambrose, Councillors Aboussafy, Dutil, Ford, Jenkins and Kerr.

It was stated the Grand Union hotel management will place two permanent "no parking" signs alongside their building leading into the parking lot. Council will suggest to the management that on the sign on the right hand side leaving the lot "turn to right" be painted and on the left hand sign, "no left turn."

The hotel management will also be asked to repair the sidewalk leading into the lot as the concrete is beginning to break-up due to the heavy weight of the cars passing over.

Councillor Dutil presented two petitions. One signed by hardware stores and dry goods, and the other by grocery stores. Upon examination of the first petition it was found a number of stores had failed to be solicited. It was decided to first approach these stores before passing the by-law.

By-laws 157 and 158 regarding an assessor and placing the 1941 tax rate at 22 mills were given third readings.

The 10% tax rebate will continue till August 30, 1941.

A letter of thanks will be sent E. O. Duke, M.L.A., for having relief authorities at Edmonton provide a local lady with temporary relief until her case is properly examined by the provincial authorities.

No answer has been received from Edmonton granting permission to sell the Hatfield property in west Coleman. A letter was received from a local citizen who offered a stated amount for the property. His letter was tabled.

Coleman Miners' hospital presented its yearly statement for $100 to cover hospitalization of town relief recipients during 1941. Amount was passed for payment.

A report was received from the assessor covering a number of new and improved buildings. Also stock in trade of a number of stores. His report was accepted.

Secretary Gladys Lees informed council she planned on issuing the assessment notices in April and suggested that the court of revision be held in the council chamber, Tuesday, May 20. Council passed the necessary motion.

A letter was received from Adam Hammer pertaining to his taxes. A letter will be sent him asking him to place his grievance before the court of revision on May 20.

Bud Wolfe Gets All-Star Hockey Rating

Gets Nod For Position by League Officials, Referees And Press; Plays For American Sault Indians.

Bud Wolfe, former Coleman goalie, and now goalie for American Sault Indians in the northern Michigan hockey league, was given top rating in the all-star selection for 1941 by league officials, referees and reporters.

Bud left Coleman last year after one year's play with Canadians. He went to the States and landed the net-minding job with the American Sault Indians where he has played brilliantly and was rewarded for his efforts by being given the high honor of being placed on an all-star team. At the present time his team is playing at Detroit in the play-offs for a championship.

GROWN IN SUNNY, SOUTHERN ONTARIO

The Mounting Toll

With the approach of the season when roads dry up under the gentle influence of spring sunshine, when the birds sing their mating songs and all nature heralds release from the bonds of ice-locked winter, the time has arrived when grim death will appear on the highways with fresh sharpened scythe ready to "mow them down."

On the one hand a joyous reawakening to new life and vigor; on the other, dire destruction, injury and death.

How many people during the coming summer are destined to spend weeks and months of agony on hospital cots; how many more are going to be imprisoned in a wooden or metal casket and covered with a pile of clouds, because of a moment of carelessness, a few seconds of recklessness on the part of someone on the open road?

The fact that most automobile accidents are attributable to carelessness or recklessness on the part of drivers cannot be over-emphasized. Once this fact can be driven into the motorists' consciousness, there may be some hope that accident toll figures which continue to climb year by year will be reduced.

Analysis of statistics, where causes of crashes can be determined, show clearly that at least two out of three accidents in which one or more automobile are involved can be credited to mistakes made by the drivers, and not the least of them is fast driving.

A survey of the toll of accidents in a recent year in the United States and published with comment in pamphlet form by one of the life insurance companies demonstrates the need for greater caution by the man behind the wheel once he gets out on to the public thoroughfare, and particularly the still greater need for restraint when driving during the hours of darkness.

Reviewing The Causes

This survey showed that the rate of death per accident which involved exceeding the speed limit was 35 per cent. worse than the average death rate for all accidents due to improper driving practices. "In accidents resulting from reckless driving, the rate of death was 32 per cent. worse, and when cars ran off the roadway (because of too much speed, very likely) the rate of death was 37 per cent. worse than the average."

And some of this recklessness and the dire results which it brought in its train were definitely attributable to the use of liquor by drivers of the cars involved in crashes; for we read: "Of all drivers in accidents, 3.1 per cent. were declared to have been under the influence of liquor. But of all drivers in fatal accidents, 6.8 per cent. were declared to have been under the influence." Thus the fatal accident experience of drivers intoxicated was 118 per cent. worse."

So we find that most of the accidents involving injury and death could have been avoided had the driver exercised reasonable prudence and care; that a very substantial percentage of these accidents would have occurred had the driver travelled at reasonable speed, and that in too many cases, abstinence from liquor would have eliminated much suffering and many funerals.

There is another factor which may be a contributing cause of an additional number of accidents in Western Canada this spring and summer and that is the condition of the roads. Due to lack of funds, the outcome of a period of years of depression, highways have not been kept in the same state of efficiency and good repair that would have been the case had the west been prosperous. The disintegration which has resulted has been accentuated by an increasing use of heavy and heavily-laden trucks for commercial traffic. These two causes combined have resulted in highways which are not as safe as they ought to be and this condition alone should urge the motorist to use discretion when tempted to press the accelerator down.

A Dual Campaign

If the mounting toll of misery, suffering and death occasioned by the reckless use of the highways is to be curbed and brought down to less startling figures than appear in the annual statements of accident records, it would appear that an all-out campaign of education must be carried out, until every driver on the highway is thoroughly alive to the dangers in which carelessness involves himself and others, and is willing to school himself to the exercise of care, caution and courtesy on every occasion and at all times.

It is true that efforts have been made in this direction, as for instance that safety campaign conducted by the R.C.M.P. over the radio. What has been done in this direction to date is not enough. Every agency must be pressed into service to carry on a mass educational campaign among motorists until the exercise of reasonable care is thoroughly grounded into their consciousness and becomes second nature as soon as they get behind the wheel.

Coupled with this there should be complete co-operation between the public and all other agencies and authorities to ensure enforcement of the law and the regulations which have been laid down to make the use of the roads safe for the general public whether afoot or afoot.

When public conscience is fully aroused to the necessity for this dual effort it can be taken for granted that injury and death on the highway will be reduced to the minimum, but until then, it will not.

Women Are Like That

"Mrs. Williams always asks the price of anything new that I happen to be wearing," said Mrs. Brown. "Rather a cheek, don't you think?" "Decidedly," replied Mrs. Black. "What has she been trying to find out recently?" "She wanted to know how much I paid for this dress."

The Little Town

Oh, I would praise the little town
Where news, by word of mouth, is Cold;
Where men salt slender earnings down,
And sun themselves when they are Old;
Where friends are proven, neighbors
Care,
If gladness comes, or grief is borne;
Where children learn to give and share,
And living rooms are family warm;
Where one green cemetery brave
The summer drought, and all the lots
Stay flower-fresh, and certain graves
Are favored with forget-me-nots;
Where help is always near at hand,
And honor comes to him who strives;
Where people know each other, and
The drama of each other's lives!

Must Be Treated Decently

Non-Commissioned Officers Not Allowed To Swear At Men

One of the instructions given to non-commissioned officers in the American army who are drilling the new selective service recruits is that they must not swear at the men. The same restriction applies to the Canadian Active Force and the Reserve Force. Officers being "gentlemen," it is presumed that they would not swear anyway.

This marks a distinct change from the old days, when the drill-sergeant and the lower grades of non-coms used to abuse the men in the most appalling manner. A great deal depended upon the character of the individual with stripes on his arm. Many there were who, either because of home training or sheer discipline, to bully young men, obtained the necessary results by using plain English. Others, however, swore hard because they were the swearing type, and perhaps also because they believed a man could not be made into a "tough" soldier unless he was treated roughly. Some of the men who drilled recruits in the last war were utter brutes. There was quite a flurry in British army circles for a while when a famous author who enlisted in a Guards battalion wrote a book about his experiences and scathingly denounced the hard-swear, ruthless treatment meted out to young men who left good homes to serve their country.

The United States order is reported to have been the outcome of letters written home by men in the first drafts. They had not been used to being sworn at and they resented it. Men who were in the British forces in the First Great War suffered in this respect, and since the Armistice has been prohibited in the building-up of the new army. Swearing only makes recruits nervous and resentful, and as the armies of to-day comprise men who have been accustomed to being treated decently by their employers and other men over the years, it is right that they should be decently treated now.

Swearing is a sign of weakness anyway. The man who cannot treat his men without using foul language is not fit for his job. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

From Force Of Habit

Small Thing Brought About Capture Of Escaped German Prisoner

A German prisoner who had escaped from a North of England camp was recaptured in a Sheffield bus because he clicked his heels when the conductor handed him his ticket.

Colin Spittle, the conductor, has received a letter from the corporation transport department congratulating him on his watchfulness.

The Nazi, about 25 years old, was disguised in a check cap, a sports coat and flannels, and carried a small attache case. He asked for his ticket in fluent English, handing over a florin.

But when he got it he clicked his heels sharply, from force of habit. Mr. Spittle pretended not to notice, but told the driver to stop when he saw a policeman.

The young man could not produce an identity card when he was questioned, and tried to get away. But he finally confessed.

Baseball Technique

U.S. Army Has Developed New Type Of Hand Grenade

Assuming that the average American youth is a baseball player, the U.S. army has developed a new type hand grenade that resembles a baseball and weighs only one-quarter of an ounce more.

The grenade is made of light metal or plastic. It will be particularly effective against machine gun nests and similar small targets whose destruction requires accurate pitching. A supplementary detonator causes the grenade to explode if handled after it has been thrown.

Army officials explain that the regulation hand grenade is too heavy and is likely to throw the pitcher's arm out of joint if baseball technique is used.

Germany's U-Boat Ace

Was Killed Presumably In R.A.F. Attack On Base At Brest

Nearly every essay on the submarine problem refers to the curious and hopeful fact that about 60 per cent. of all the U-boats damaged in the first World War was done by about 5 per cent. of the German submarine commanders. It is an index to the difficulty of getting and training the right man, without whom even swarms of boats are of limited usefulness; and it adds its peculiar interest to the death of the famous Lothar von Arnauld de la Periere, who was the greatest "ace" of them all. The Germans said that he was killed in an "accident." The British believe that the "accident" was the R.A.F. raid the same night on the submarine base at Brest, a vice-admiral, was presumably dispatched new summaries to repeat his efficient exploits. If so, it was an ironic fate for the man who crawled through so many seas, faced so many perils and sank 200 ships unscathed—a small part of the complex irony which this new war, continuing the old one, engenders.

He is credited in one tabulation with the destruction of 400,000 tons. Only two others came anywhere near the total; only five in all sank as much as 200,000 tons, and only 20 destroyed more than 100,000 tons each. His was a dashing and apparently friendly figure (he was unperturbed when, commanding the new cruiser Emden on a good-will tour in later years, he was received by the celebrated Huey Long in pajamas); the British respected him as one who played his murderous game as fairly as possible, but the Italians put him on the treaty list of war criminals. Such is this war. The Italians were his gallant allies, when the British killed him with a bomb from the air weapon which has grown into a menace both to submarines and their bases such as Von Arnauld de la Periere never had to contend with. One wonders a little about that bomb, about what other damage it did, about the real effect of the steady pounding of the submarines bases on supply, repair, outfitting and above all on the training, morale and survival of the precious crews and commanders who can alone make submarine warfare effective. —New York Herald-Tribune.

SELECTED RECIPES

CRISPIES MARSHMALLOW SQUARES

1/2 cup butter
1/2 pint marshmallows (about 2 1/2 dozen)
1 teaspoon vanilla (if desired)
1 package Kellogg's Rice Krispies (9 1/2 oz.)
Melt butter and marshmallows in double boiler. Add vanilla; beat thoroughly to blend. Put Rice Krispies in large buttered bowl and pour on marshmallow mixture, stirring briskly. Press into shallow buttered pan. Cut into squares when cool.
Yield: 16 2 1/2-inch squares (10 x 10-inch pan).

Note: Nut meats and coconut may be added.
Two ounces of melted unsweetened chocolate or four ounces of melted semi-sweet chocolate may be added to the marshmallow mixture just before pouring over Rice Krispies.

EGGS, GARDEN STYLE

4 eggs, beaten
12 Christie's Premium Soda Crackers, crumbled
2 tablespoons grated Canadian cheese
3/4 cup milk
Salt and pepper
3 tablespoons butter
1 cup diced cooked vegetables
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Beat eggs slightly, add crumbled crackers and cheese; stir in milk and season. Melt butter in saucepan and add cracker mixture. Stir over heat, and when mixture begins to thicken, add diced vegetables and continue to cook until as thick as scrambled eggs. Garnish with parsley. Six portions.

When Country Is Free

Paderewski Plans Concert Tour To Celebrate Rebirth Of Poland

At 80, Ignace Jan Paderewski looks forward to one more triumphant concert tour—to celebrate the rebirth of a free Poland.

Until his nation can throw off the conquerors' yoke, Paderewski's piano is still. From a seaside villa at Palm Beach, Fla., the aged, ailing statesman is directing Polish relief.

"It is easy to get information past the lax Soviet censors," he said. "More than 600,000 Poles, mostly women and children, have been forcibly removed from their homes to the Soviet empire—and left to die. Already estimate from 10 to 15 per cent. of these people have died, and many more are doomed."

Goering claims to be descended from an Englishman. If that's true he has certainly descended a long way.

WHY BOTHER WITH "TEMPORARY RELIEF" WHEN CONSTIPATION CAN BE CORRECTED?

Perhaps your constipation is the common type due to lack of the right kind of "bulk" in the diet. If so, how much more sensible it is to try to correct it, rather than to rely on harsh cathartics that bring only temporary relief.

CELLOGGS ALL-BRAN, a nut-sweet, delicious cereal, supplies the proper "bulk" to help you keep regular. Eat ALL-BRAN every day, and drink plenty of water. See how this "Better Way" to treat constipation makes your old "troubles" disappear! But, remember, ALL-BRAN doesn't work like purgatives... it takes time. Ask your grocer for CELLOGGS' ALL-BRAN today. In two convenient sizes. Or get it in individual serving packages at restaurants. Made by Kellogg's in London, Can.

New Ex-Service Men

Men Who Have Served In Present War Accorded Recognition

Men who have served during the present war with Canadian active forces are accorded recognition as "ex-servicemen" along with veterans of the First Great War, defence headquarters announced.

Instructions addressed to heads of branches and divisions, and district officers commanding, said the men are to be included in the "ex-service" category in connection with hiring men for government works under direct supervision of the Defence Department.

In such cases, "other things being equal, preference should be given unemployed ex-service men," the instructions said.

100 Years To Recover

The morals of savages are being inculcated in millions of German children, said Herwald Ramsbotham, president of the Board of Education, in a speech at Salford, Linca. He added "it will take Germany at least a century to recover from the appalling spiritual and intellectual damage inflicted by the Nazis upon German children."

The World's Cattle

Figures Giving Number In Different Countries Are Rather Astonishing

The St. Thomas Times-Journal says that, astonishing as it may seem, there are about 13,000,000 cows in the United Kingdom and only 8,000,000 in the Dominion of Canada. It is in fact too astonishing to be credited. Latest official statistics show 8,224,000 cattle on Canadian farms, but only 3,933,300 milk cows. The United Kingdom in 1939 reported 8,875,200 cattle of all kinds. Germany, by the way, had 19,911,200 cattle in that year. France 15,621,700, these countries leading Europe with exception of Russia for which 1939 statistics are not available, but which in 1938 reported 63,200,000 cattle.

Lord Beaverbrook Says Britain's Airplane Production Is Record

London.—The greatest reserve of bombers and fighters in history is secreted in "storage houses distributed everywhere" in Britain, Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production, announced.

In a broadcast, the Canadian-born publisher who heads Britain's plane production said a tally had shown that the aircraft assembled, "all ready for action, ready for immediate operations, is a record surpassing anything that has gone before, anything in the history of aviation."

At the same time Lord Beaverbrook's ministry announced that huge far-flying four-motored bombers had landed in Britain from the United States, presumably for use in the Battle of the Atlantic.

Lord Beaverbrook said the tally of reserves was made and disclosed these technical gains in aviation:

1. In the race for altitude, British scientists have "watched the Hurricane and Spitfire (fighters) being lifted up and up until now these airplanes ride high, wide and handsome."

2. Two new planes "at this moment are passing the development stage to production" and behind these are several other new types;

3. Five new motors "have been brought from experiment to manufacture in nine months."

Although the numbers of British planes are a closely guarded secret, black headlines in the Sunday Chronicle proclaimed that Britain now is producing 3,000 of all types each month and that her production peak has not yet been reached.

Arrival of the first giant bombers from the United States with range enough to bring the remotest corners of German-dominated territory into the Royal Air Force's target area was disclosed in a statement issued by the aircraft production ministry.

It did not give the time or number of the arrivals but said the first to come were what the British officials call "liberators"—long-range, heavy bombers produced by the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation of San Diego, Cal.

These planes, with a power plant of four Pratt and Whitney engines which develop 1,200 horsepower at the take-off, are said to have a range of 3,000 miles—enough to bomb any point in Italy, Germany or Nazi occupied countries from Royal Air Force bases in Britain.

They could fly non-stop from England to Egypt or from England to Sofia, Bulgaria, and back and are credited with a top speed of 335 miles an hour.

The aircraft production minister named only one of the new types of engines—the Sabre—and said that G. P. Bulman, for many years in charge of engine production in the air and aircraft production ministries, was largely responsible for it.

The Sabre has been disclosed to have the highest power output of any British type which has passed official trials. It also has an extremely small frontal area.

President of Wool Growers

Toronto.—Chris Jones of Magrath, Alberta, was re-elected president of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association at the annual meeting here. It will be his fifth consecutive term.

Bulgar Underground Organizations Start Sabotage Campaign

Istanbul.—A report reached Istanbul that Bulgarian underground organizations had started on the greatest sabotage campaign ever seen in southeastern Europe to impede the German armies and that they had already thrown German communications in southeastern Bulgaria into a chaotic state.

The report was brought by an authoritative anti-German Bulgarian who had just escaped across the Turkish-Bulgarian border.

He said Bulgarian saboteurs had dynamited at least two German oil trains, blown up bridges and cut telegraph lines. He asserted that every telegraph line in southern Bulgaria had been damaged during the last two weeks.

The informant said that political elements who had long been bitter

Many Refugees In Nice

Various Languages Are Heard In Former Holiday Resort

Nice, France.—No city in the unoccupied zone of France is gay these days, but the least mournful is this holiday resort of better years to which refugees from all Europe have fled.

Theatres, operas, cabarets, and now gambling provide distractions, and the broad Promenade des Anglais is crowded on sunny mornings. Strollers along the blue Mediterranean's edge speak English, German, Polish, Russian, and Czech more often than French. Most are well dressed.

As in all France, if you have the money you can eat well. If you haven't, you eat poorly.

There is a "black" market for food—with butter at $2 per pound few Frenchmen can afford it.

Foodstuffs For Overseas

President Roosevelt Says United States Has Plenty To Send

Washington.—Asserting that the United States has plenty of foodstuffs, President Roosevelt disclosed that he has asked the agriculture department and the public health service to prepare a list of food and related products needed by Great Britain and some other countries.

He told a press conference that Britain would get a major portion of the food shipments, and that Spain might get some. He added that the Red Cross is completing arrangements to send two cargoes of grains to unoccupied France.

Vitamins in concentrated form will be included in the food supplies for Britain, the president said.

Secure Radio Men

Use Registration To Locate Men For War Work

Ottawa.—Hon. J. G. Gardiner, national war service minister, told the House of Commons that practically all the radio men enlisted by the air force to operate new devices aimed at overcoming the night bombing menace in Britain were found as a result of last August's national registration. He said 1,500 such men were found in one city.

He was replying to T. C. Douglas (C.C.F., Weyburn), who asked what co-operation there was between the air services department and other departments to utilize the registration for location of men needed in various industries.

Defence of Britain

Warns Citizens Population To Stand Firm In Invasion Attempt

London.—Home Secretary Herbert Morrison warned Britain's civilian population in a broadcast to "stand firm" in the event of an invasion attempt so that there would be no flight of terror-stricken refugees such as helped the Nazis on the continent in 1940.

He said that the "military chiefs have made plans for the defence of Britain on the basis of complete confidence that you won't let them down."

enemies had united to oppose the German march and that among them were many men who had gained notoriety for skill with bombs and dynamite.

According to the informant, hundreds of agents operating for the organizations had been well supplied with money and dynamite and plans had been made for espionage and subversive propaganda.

The saboteurs had even planned to destroy this summer's Bulgarian crops as part of their work of impeding the Germans, the informant said.

He asserted that the leader of the saboteurs was a prominent Macedonian who was operating from a hideout in the Macedonian mountains. The informant said he could not give the leader's name. He added that another leader had escaped abroad to work from exile. 2404

St. Lawrence Seaway Plan

Development Is Said To Have Defence Objectives

Washington.—An agreement to start the long-debated St. Lawrence seaway and power project at once was signed by the United States and Canada in what President Roosevelt called a vital joint defence move.

Subject to approval by the United States congress and Canadian parliament, the revived 15-year-old plan envisions a giant engineering project in the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence river. It would rival the Panama canal in magnitude.

The cost was estimated by engineers at $266,170,000, most or all of which is expected to be paid by the United States.

Unlike the treaty proposing a similar project which failed to receive the necessary two-thirds vote of the United States senate in 1934, the agreement will require only a majority vote in each house of congress.

In a letter of endorsement to Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, the president declared the combined power and navigation plan justified "for our joint defence effort, including aid to Great Britain."

The development was said to have two defence objectives: To provide increased power for "certain portions of our long-range defence program."

To open up the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence for deep sea navigation and "to afford an outlet for naval and cargo ships constructed in Great Lakes shipyards."

What specific agreement was reached on the financing was not disclosed but the engineering report embraced only the international rapids section work.

Orders Reach Billions

Britain Has Paid Cash For All Goods Delivered From United States

Washington.—The United States congress received a statistical summary of Britain's wartime finances and operations from Harold D. Smith, budget director.

Smith said existing British orders here total $2,700,000,000, of which about $1,652,000,000 has been paid. The policy of the United Kingdom has been to pay cash, and all goods delivered have been paid for. Usually 25 per cent. has been paid in cash when the orders were placed.

Remaining liabilities, said Smith, will be met from existing dollar resources, such as sale of British holdings of U.S. securities, acquisition of gold and proceeds of Britain exports to United States.

None of the proposed $7,000,000,000 British aid appropriation, however, is to be used to pay for orders placed by Britain in this country prior to the lease-lend bill.

Agreement Violated

China Claims Thailand Has Advanced Troops Beyond Border Line

Saloon, French Indo-China.—French Indo-China authorities protested to Japanese military officials that Thailand has violated the Japanese-mediated peace agreement of March 11 by advancing troops beyond the new West Cambodia border line. The Thai advance, it was charged, has blocked French Indo-China supply routes and troops, isolating them.

Damaged In Air Raids

London.—Authorities disclosed these institutions had been damaged in recent German air raids: In Glasgow, the University and Glasgow hospital. In Liverpool, the Cotton Exchange and Commercial Exchange. In Leeds, the town hall and Kirkgate market.

FWLW 21,000 MILES

R. G. Menzies, prime minister of Australia, smiled as he arrived in London after a 21,000-mile trip by air. He conferred with British officials on the prosecution of the war.

For Civil Defence Work

British Government To Seek Power To Conscript Men

London.—Mr. Average Briton's desire to get a direct crack at the enemy rather than clean up the mess left by Nazi bombers has forced the government to seek power to conscript men for civil defence in the same manner as for the fighting forces.

Lack of recruits for such services as fire fighting, first aid, and the police war reserve, despite every effort to obtain volunteers, was admitted by a high source to be a cause for concern.

Men due for registration last January were given the opportunity of joining such services, but the results were described as negligible and the government is satisfied there is no prospect of obtaining any considerable number of full-time recruits.

Men conscripted under the bill will be required to serve in any part of the United Kingdom, including Northern Ireland.

Thus, if the government decides to form a mobile reserve for aiding badly-raided areas, it will be given power to move them. Men serving away from home will receive a bill of allowance.

It is understood conscientious objectors will be subject to compulsory service in the civil defence force.

For Permanent Peace

Must Pave The Way To Settle Problems By Negotiation

Ottawa.—Sen. Claude Pepper, D., Fla., said that after the "international culprits are chained to the stocks" all nations and races must prepare for establishment of international machinery to settle common problems by negotiation.

But our first task, he said, is to shut them (the culprits) in the prison walls of impotence to take the dangerous weapons from their hands... then men of good will may lay down their arms and sense the indescribable satisfactions of peace."

Appearing before the Canadian club, Pepper, who is touring Canada, asserted that the world has "flung away opportunities to save the peace in the past." He said pan-Americanism may point the way towards a permanent solution of world controversies.

Average Wheat Price

Ottawa.—Average price received by Canadian wheat producers during the first five months of the 1940-41 crop year was 51 cents a bushel, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons.

Call Is Sent Out For Extra Recruits To Reinforce Army

Bombing Raids In Britain

Berlin Is Trying To Brace The German Morale

London.—The worst rain of fire and death from the skies London has endured this year synchronized with house of representatives passage in Washington of the $7,000,000,000 bill to finance all-out United States aid for Britain.

That might be coincidence but more likely it was not. It appeared to be a Berlin move to brace German morale against the news from Washington, or against recent British bombing raids on Berlin and other German cities.

The Germans hint that the raids on Britain are designed to "soften" the British people up for some sort of decisive military action. These hints are in the same category as claims in Berlin and Rome that the first shipment of U.S. armaments to start for Britain since passage of the British aid bill has been sent.

The persons circulating these claims undoubtedly hope that, whether or not they prove to have any foundation, they will serve the immediate purpose of bucking the Germans up.

Berlin claimed docks were the principal targets in the most recent London attack, and that great damage was inflicted. The docks, however, have not been used as a deep sea terminal on any extensive scale since France fell, and it is highly doubtful that shipping on the Thames carries much British war gear traffic now.

Remarkable Rescue

Bomb, Raid Victim Lives After Eight Days Buried In Debris

Glasgow.—Swathed in blankets and smoking a cigarette, John Cormack, 22, was removed to hospital after being dug out from the debris of a bombed tenement under which he had lain for almost eight days.

Doctors said it was "extraordinary" that he had lived as long. "Four or five days being considered almost the limit for a person to live without liquid or food."

He was the second such survivor. Frederick Clark, 32-year-old policeman, having been dug out earlier in the day. But Clark died shortly afterward at the hospital.

Cormack told rescuers he believed a girl, lying near him still was alive and that others were entombed deeper in the wreckage.

Trapped In Wreckage

London.—Moans from the wreckage of a tenement in a Clyde-side town, 132 hours after a bomb had shattered the building, sent a physician burrowing to the aid of a trapped woman. He administered hypodermic injections and the woman was rescued alive, nodding her thanks. She died six hours later in a hospital.

British Army Of Nile Has Established A World's Speed Record

London.—The ministry of information said the British army of the Nile had established a "world's record for speed in action" and had killed or captured the "whole army of 150,000 men" which the Italian commander, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, had assembled in North Africa for the invasion of Egypt.

"It is believed that two tanks and four armored cars escaped" from Graziani's force, the ministry said. It added the British army had suffered less than 2,000 casualties.

The ministry used the Libyan campaign and the long marches in Somaliland and Southern Ethiopia to point up to declaration the German army never had been called upon to meet "such an opponent as the British army of today."

The swift advance in Somaliland and Ethiopia, it said, was a "far more remarkable performance than that of the Germans in France," as a feat of endurance by men and machines.

Italian defences in Africa were "really strong" and the Italian soldiers "courageous," the ministry said, but "the fact is that the British Ottawa.—A call has been sent out for 6,000 recruits to reinforce units in the active army, Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons as he illustrated the system of reinforcements by district quotas. He was answering a question from Howard Green (Con., Vancouver South).

Under the quota system, each military district would be asked to supply a number of these reinforcements, but all districts would not be asked to furnish recruits for all services. In turn, the districts would ask their reserve units to furnish quotas.

For the present call 1,576 of the 6,000 required were for the artillery. Artillery reserve units would be asked to contribute to these. Others would be for the signal corps, for the armored corps, the ordnance and army service corps. A small number of the total would be for infantry units.

"Probably one-third of these men will be obtained from reserve army units," said Col. Ralston. "The others will be obtained by direct enlistments at the district depots, from men who come to the depots."

The minister said district officers commanding usually had a good idea of the number of men in each reserve army unit who were ready to volunteer for active service. Thus they knew in advance where to look for the men to fill their district quotas.

It was the duty of the officers in charge of reserve units to keep sufficient men on strength to meet calls from reinforcements for the active army.

For Greater Safety

Lane Of Destroyers To Replace Convoy System Is Advised

New York.—Shipping sources reported some United States experts had advised Britain to abandon the convoy system and establish a lane of destroyers across the Atlantic in an effort to thwart the increasing German threat to vital war supplies from America.

In broad outline the new plan would call for a constant patrol of some 50 destroyers along the 2,000 miles of great circle route from Labrador to the British Isles. They would be rotated in duty so that 40 always would be on watch while 10 either would be in port refueling or en route to their posts for a two weeks tour.

Each of these 40 destroyers would patrol a 50-mile sector of the Atlantic 10 times a day, establishing a lane across the Atlantic every inch of which would be policed by a warship every two or three hours.

At no time, shipping experts pointed out, would a destroyer be more than an hour's distance from any merchantman in the lane.

Advocates of the plan say it would mean adequate protection since they believe few if any German raiders would be able to penetrate a lane so constantly patrolled.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

WENDELL WILKIE gave the War Services campaign a splendid send-off in Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, on Monday. He stressed the urgency of giving quickly, and to give point to his sincerity in urging all-out aid to Britain, presented a cheque for $20,000 from an American association to buy a Spitfire fighting plane for Britain. If people will give as quickly as urged by Mr. Wilkie, this week should see the campaign for $5,500,000 well over the top. It can be done, if the necessary enthusiasm and will to give is aroused.

GLANCING over Hansard, which contains reports of all that goes on in the House of Commons, in discussing monetary matters pertaining to war, one member mentioned something about equality of sacrifice. A lot of time is wasted in the House over private members endeavoring to air pet theories on financing and issuing of currency, but it is apparently impossible to prevent this extravagant waste of public money under our parliamentary system.

EQUALITY of sacrifice is talked of in the House; it is talked of all over the country, but our observance shows that there is not equality of sacrifice. Quite recently we read of one man whose firm profited to the extent of thousands of dollars from various activities, and he held one war bond of $500. Coming down to our own local field and the efforts made to support the war services, it is most noticeable that in the raising of funds, such as Red Cross, and the War Auxiliary Services for which the present drive is under way, usually the same little group of active workers have to get out and do the organizing and canvassing, for if they didn't the amounts raised would be very small. All this entails sacrifice, for it is not a pleasant job to go knocking at doors, and explaining to indifferent people the reason you have called. The worker gives his donation and a day or more of his time as well. The least those who are called on can do is to meet the call with a response as promptly as possible, and not take time asking a lot of questions. The main thing is to give and give quickly, for that counts most.

THE Wetaskiwin Times marked its fortieth anniversary in its issue of March 20. Two days later the publisher, Victor C. French, passed on, and it is of interest to read what proved to be his final editorial, though when he wrote it, in spite of weeks of lingering illness, he still was imbued with optimism and the ideals of service through his weekly newspaper:

"Yes, for the past forty years, week in and week out, The Wetaskiwin Times has been published under the same management. Some weeks have been good weeks, and some not so good; some years have been fat years and some not so fat; but through them all, The Times has appeared regularly to its subscribers. For those good weeks and fat years, we extend our thanks, and as for those not so good weeks, and lean years, we trust that they will never overbalance the good."

A newspaper is a part of a community. Residents read it to learn the news of their neighborhoods, read it to see what the local merchants are offering, and read it to keep in touch with local happenings. With so much international news appearing in the dailies, it is with somewhat of a relief that you pick up your local paper and calmly read the happenings of your own district. At different times during the past years we may have fallen down in our reporting duties, and for this we extend our apologies. We want you to feel however, that it is your paper, and we are grateful for, and welcome any news items which may be sent to us. Again let us thank our subscribers and advertisers, as we commence our 41st year of service to Wetaskiwin and district."

Let Us Help England While We Arm

From the Chicago Herald American February 21-41.
by JOHN D. MCGREGOR, Noted Bacteriologist

The Atlantic is not 3,000 miles wide. From Iceland, which will be a Nazi province if England is defeated, it is only 800 miles to Greenland, and from Greenland it is only 950 miles to Newfoundland.

From Africa, which will be Nazi-controlled if Britain loses, it is only 1,600 miles to South America. From the Azores, which will also become Nazi if Britain goes down, it is only 1,800 miles to Bermuda.

If Britain loses, the Nazis could invade South America, because they would be nearer than we are. They have organized powerful fifth columns in South America. The armies of our sister republics in South America would be no match for the conqueror of Europe.

We are pledged to keep invaders out of the Western Hemisphere. Once established in South America, the invader could threaten the Panama Canal, the jugular of our whole scheme of security.

From bases in northern South America the Nazis could bomb our Caribbean bases, even our gulf coast and oil fields. A Nazi-dominated South America would be a constant threat to the security of the United States.

At the same time we would face the threat of Nazi attacks from Iceland and the Azores.

With Britain defeated, with our own fleet divided between the Atlantic and the Pacific, and our new bases unfinished, the Nazis could establish air bases in Newfoundland and on the shores of Hudson's Bay.

From such bases they could bomb not only the busy armament centres of the industrial Northeast, but also the great cities of the Middle West—Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis.

Air superiority could not prevent the bombing of our cities, once the enemy had bases within range of them. Germany's great air strength has not prevented nightly bombings by the Royal Air Force of the Nazi industrial centres.

We are building a two-ocean navy and thousands of fighting planes.

But our two-ocean navy will not be ready until 1946, and our plane-manufacturing capacity will not equal that of the Nazis until 1942.

We need time—time to make the defences of the Western Hemisphere impregnable. But Hitler doesn't wait! What can we do?

We can help Britain rule the Atlantic while our inadequate navy guards the Pacific, by continuing to send England the planes, ships, tanks, guns and food which she needs to keep the war on that side of the Atlantic.

Hitler and Mussolini know that so long as the British navy is on the job their side of the Atlantic, they will never be able to bring war to the New World. We know it, too.

Speak up, America! Speed up, America!

The battle for our way of life will be won or lost on our assembly lines.

RELIEF COST $60,000,000 IN EIGHT YEARS

Relief has cost Alberta more than $60,000,000 in the past eight years, it was disclosed in the Legislature this week by Hon. Dr. W. W. Crooks, Minister of Health and Public Welfare. Replying to critics in one of his rare speeches, the minister said that State Medicine was wanted by the people of Alberta, and that it would be provided in progressive steps as the means became available. Earlier in the day he had announced opening of the Calgary cancer clinic, second step in the five-year plan of cancer control which the province is inaugurating. Diagnosis and treatment is free for curable cases.

Bowmanville, Ontario, taxpayers will enjoy this year the lowest tax rate in almost two decades. During the past four years the tax rate has been reduced by seven mills.

Governor-General and Princess Alice to Visit Provincial Capital

Edmonton will be honored March 26 by a visit from the Earl of Athlone and the Princess Alice, and details of the welcoming program for the Governor-General and his Consort have been completed. Arriving via C.N.R. at 6:35 a.m., the vice royal party will remain on train until 10:00 a.m., when the lieutenant-governor and Mrs. Bowen, Premier and Mrs. Aberhart, Mayor and Mrs. Fry will arrive at the depot. A public reception will begin in the legislative chambers at 9 p.m. Col. W. F. W. Hancock, R.C.M.P., Chief Constable Shute, provincial and local officials of the Canadian Legion, Canadian Corps, Imperial Veterans, Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts and Red Cross will be present at a morning session in the Memorial Hall at 10:30 a.m. Princess Alice will visit the soldiers' wing of the University Hospital, and if time permits, the children's section. The official party will be guests of the province at a luncheon in the Macdonald hotel at 12:30 noon, at which official addresses of welcome will be presented by Premier Aberhart and Mayor Fry. At 2:30 p.m. the governor-general will inspect naval and military forces in training, and at 3:40 will inspect the R.C.A.F. training centre, where he will have tea in the officers' mess. Meanwhile, Princess Alice will be busy receiving leaders of women's war work enterprises, and at 5:30 p.m. will inspect Girl Guides at the Prince of Wales Armories. At the end of the day their excellencies will leave for Jasper, where they will remain a day before leaving for the east. Calgary will receive the distinguished visitors on April 21.

FORD!

IT'S THE BIG CAR

with the THRIFTY Engine!

Have you seen the Ford... the big new 1941 Ford. In actual feet and inches it's the roomiest car in its price class. Greatest inside length! Greatest total seating width! Extra knee-room and head-room! Wider doors! Larger windshield! A spring-base that's inches longer.

It's the big car with the thrifty engine. Only Ford, at this price, is powered with an eight. Eight cylinders for smoothness as in America's highest priced cars. Gasoline economy, that has outstripped all competition in its class, in one official contest after another. Long life and reliability that persuades Ford owners to buy one Ford after another.

What's more, the 1941 Ford has that big car "feel"—that road-hugging stability on the curves or on the straightaway.

This year Ford riding qualities are a revelation—a completely new ride made possible by "Slow-Motion Springs," plus improved shock absorbers, new stabilizer, a more rigid frame.

Ford prices are still lowest. Get in touch with a Ford dealer and see what an attractive deal he is willing to offer.

NEED IS URGENT

There's no question of the need; it is urgent. Give your dollars to help make our fighting sailors, soldiers and airmen happier and a little more comfortable while they're fighting for you. The Canadian War Services Fund needs $5,500,000. Give generously—and they'll get it.

THE "Stand Out" BUY!

Illustrated is the New McLaughlin-Buick SPECIAL 4-door Sedan with 118-inch wheelbase.

... and here's why!

FOR THE SEASON'S biggest news in car value, go see the new McLaughlin-Buick SPECIALS. Big in all the fine-car qualities that are traditional with Buick, these cars are compactly built on a 118-inch wheelbase chassis.

We've trimmed inches off the overall length—so that these new Buicks are easier to park, nimbler in traffic, thrifter in operation. And we've trimmed many dollars off the price tag to give you today's stand-out buy.

When it comes to action—these new Buicks have a 115-hp. FIREBALL eight under their bonnets that skims you down the road like a mallard heading home.

They've got genuine Buick all-coil springing, close to five feet of seat-room up front and the unmistakable touch of Buick quality in the lines, finish and equipment of their Uniastel Turret Top Bodies by Fisher.

You'll like the new Buick SPECIAL—available in a 6-passenger four-door Torpedo Sedan and a 6-passenger Sport Coupe. And if you look ahead, you'll buy Buick for years of faithful service.

C. A. T. S. Notes

With all the signs of spring in the air the C.A.T.S. take to the wide open spaces for drill and route marches. Last Friday night saw 32 turn out for a route march to Blairmore. Record time was made, two hours and a half covering the round trip and stop in Blairmore. While marching easy the girls sang songs and the clear night made it very pleasant.

Upon nearing the main street in Blairmore there was a predominance of some of the more unpleasant odours of spring. Lance Corporal E. Foster remarked, "You had better stop and call the roll. It smells as if there is a dead cat around."

Upon falling out for fifteen minutes, the girls enjoyed coffee in the cafe, then returned to Coleman.

Wednesday afternoon drills are now taking place at the ball park, weather permitting. New members are still welcomed to the ranks.

Cigarette Fund Notes

During the past week or two the cigarette fund committee has received complaints from relatives of local soldiers serving overseas that their sons or brothers are not receiving all the cigarettes that are said to be sent them. Henceforth this column will record all correspondence received from soldiers pertaining to receiving cigarettes.

Four cards were received this week, two of which are published. The other two are still in the possession of secretary Archie McCulloch and it is hoped to publish them next week.

"Dear Members — Thank you again. It seems that every time we turn around there is a parcel from the Legion. We really appreciate everything you are doing for us. Corporal Lorenzo Richards."

"Dear Members — Many thanks. Doing fine. Lance Corporal Percy Snow."

These notes were written on MacDonald's cigarettes acknowledgement cards.

Theatre Notes

"City of Conquest"

The potent duo of James Cagney, Ann Sheridan commands attention and interest at all times. This is one of the greatest roles of his career. It is entertaining for young and old alike and will keep all keenly interested throughout its entire showing. "It is a story with all the fight and fury of its two great stars . . . of desperate courage and bleak despair . . . and finally of triumph in defeat for a great and noble character." Showing at the Palace, Sat., Mon., March 29, 31.

"Flowing Gold"

The notable trio of John Garfield, Frances Farmer, Pat O'Brien bring to you the thrilling story of the lives and loves of the men who drill to find 'Oil.' These are the gallant, foolish 'oil bums' through whose hands flow millions, and in whose hearts adventure beats . . . the men who would rather have danger than dollars, fun than fortune . . . and who ask only for the thrill of finding it! One-thousand-and-one thrills and adventures! Spectacular! Breath-taking scenes! Mobs and Gang fights in the Mushroom Towns of the Oil Fields! Action galore! and romance too!

"Spring Parade"

The year's most lavish spectacle — Deanna Durbin's 8th hit! showing at Cole's Bellevue, Sat.-Mon.-Tues., March 29-31-April 1st. You've never seen Deanna like this . . . she has grown up! Your hearts will sing! Your spirits will soar! Thrill scenes you'll never forget with daring Deanna going gay in the world's gayest city! Her greatest and grandest triumph. Beauty to thrill your eyes! Romance to warm your heart! Melodrama to thrill your ears! The gayest screen event of the year!

BRITAIN'S "ARK ROYAL" STILL UNHURT

The British Navy's aircraft-carrier "Ark Royal", frequently falsely claimed by German propaganda to have been sunk, is seen on a recent sweep by the British Fleet through the Mediterranean. Aircraft from the "Ark Royal" are seen operating from her flying-deck.

British Capture Italian Position

The strongly-held Italian Fort Gallabat on the Sudan-Abyssinian Frontier has been captured by the British forces. A quantity of Italian war material was found, and here British soldiers are seen examining captured enemy guns.

Six Men On the Ice

... and the town in the bleachers

When our town plays hockey we're all out to cheer the boys on the ice.

Yes . . . and we all dig down to support the team. By and large we're pretty good sports in Coleman.

Now we've got a team in big league company.

When boys in uniform line up for roll call this community is well represented.

This time we've got to dig down in earnest.

We've got to see that our boys get the best of equipment . . . guns and shells and tanks and ships and planes. It's going to cost a lot of money;

Those who know wine best—the French—choose
Bright's

THE French in Canada are experts in detecting the fragrant bouquet and mellow flavour of fine wine—and they have chosen Bright's as the first of all favourites. Huge wine cellars, in excess of 4,000,000 gallons capacity, make possible the proper ageing that yields a fuller, richer flavour, a riper bouquet. Bright's will suit your taste, too!

Southern Alberta Organizing for War Services Fund

Leonard D. Nesbitt of Alberta Wheat Pool Heads Publicity Campaign.

Organizations serving Canada's airmen, soldiers and sailors abroad and at home will be assisted to the extent of $120,000 from Southern Alberta. Devoted to this purpose and with A. Craig Pierce, Drumheller farmer and a past president of the Calgary Board of Trade, as its general chairman, a working committee has set up offices in the Renfrew Building, Calgary.

Senator W. A. Buchanan, Lethbridge, and M.M. Porter, K.C., Calgary, are joint honorary chairmen of the Southern Alberta Division, and W. A. Austin, Didsbury, and S. B. Chamberlain, Calgary, are vice-chairmen. Mr. Chamberlain is in charge of Calgary city organization.

"Canadian War Services Fund Inc., of which the Southern Alberta endeavor is a part, has been created following a close study by the minister of war services, in collaboration with representatives of war service organizations, toward the consolidating of the previous separate drives into one national annual effort," Mr. Pierce stated. "It was on the insistence of the people that the principle of six appeals in one was accepted, not only to do away with the duplication of effort and expense, but also to relieve us of confusion in responding to what seemed endless calls."

HOW TO SAFEGUARD YOUR HEALTH

In the Winter number of the Magazine "Health", a magazine devoted to the promotion of personal and community health and published by the Health League of Canada, the following article appears, written by Frank Chamberlain:

IF I WERE HEALTH DICTATOR OF CANADA

1. Every young man and young woman would receive physical training and adequate health education during school years.
2. Every man, woman and child in the country would receive a complete physical examination once a year.
3. Every mother who is going to have a baby would be compelled to go to a doctor for regular examinations before and after the birth of the child.
4. Every couple who wanted to get married would be obliged to show a medical certificate indicating that they were free of contagious disease.
5. Every child in the Dominion would, before he reached the age of six months, be obliged to have three treatments of toxoid as a preventative against diphtheria.
6. Every man and woman who applied for a driving license would have to produce a certificate showing that they had been physically examined during the year, and were fit to drive a car.

people.

8. Every doctor in Canada would work just as hard to prevent sickness as he does to cure it.

9. Every hospital in Canada should seek to prevent patients from entering its doors by actively co-operating to prevent illness.

10. Every family would be able to employ the services of a trained nurse at a fee that was not beyond their reach.

11. Every citizen would pay a fee to their doctor or to the state to keep them well, and to the hospitals as an insurance against sickness.

12. Every member of Parliament would be inspired to see that adequate health services are available for every Canadian, and the closest co-operation with the provinces maintained.

13. Every man who has offered his services to the country and been rejected would be placed in a "Fitness Battalion," and efforts made to improve his health.

14. Compulsory pasteurization of milk would be characteristic of all provinces instead of only one, Ontario, as now.

SIX APPEALS IN ONE—GIVE!

SUPPOSE your boy was on active service in Great Britain, Iceland, Newfoundland, or in a Canadian Camp far from home. You'd want him to have wholesome recreation, homelike social contacts and every possible comfort and happiness off duty.

The boys of our fighting forces are our own flesh and blood. From mine, sea, farm and forest and from city, town and village, they have gone forth as defenders of our safety, our homes and our way of life. They have broken home ties, left friends and loved ones, given up the comforts of home.

Six great organizations are united in asking for funds to see that those comforts are provided. Surely we, safe and secure at home, will provide them with moments of happiness.

Let the volunteer helper who calls on you carry back your pledge of loyal support for our fighting men. The boys rely on the folks back home. You never have failed them—you will not now... Give generously in this combined appeal.

Solved Parking Problem

Bombs Have Opened Up Many Spaces In British Cities

The bombing of London and other cities may solve car parking problems. Open spaces now yawn where warehouses and office blocks stood before the fire bombs fell. Plans are being made to convert these gaps into parking lots. There are still plenty of private cars in London. About 20,000 are enlisted in the "Help Your Neighbor" scheme. Official parking spaces are totally inadequate and thousands still leave cars in side streets, hindering the work of civil defence and troubling the police. Bombs have made parking lots for all in central London.

Word Gentlemen Would Not Fit
Either Mussolini Or Hitler

The Argonaut, San Francisco, makes this comment:

If a press report be authentic, and seems to be, Marshal Graziani, the commander of the Italian army in North Africa, told the Italian colonists to remain behind, and not to follow the Italian army in its retreat. "You remain behind," he told them, adding: "The British will arrive, but they are gentlemen and will treat you kindly. Don't be afraid, they will not hurt you. They will leave you to work in peace."

Marshal Graziani told the truth, but it would not have been the truth if he had called his master, Benito Mussolini, a gentleman, nor would it be true if any German called his master, Adolf Hitler, one. Hitler and Mussolini have both been buns in the past, and they still possess the souls of buns. While we do not accept the old saying, "Once a bum, always a bum," it does deserve some countenance from such men as the two dictators. Even Napoleon Bonaparte was not quite a gentleman, though he was a man of genius; but, by comparison with Mussolini and Hitler, the man of 60 battles shines.

If there were no other reason for wishing to witness an English vicar, it would be enough to remember that England is ruled by gentlemen, and that Germany and Italy are not being ruled by that type of man at present. It is understood that Mussolini can put on society manners, if necessary; but this Herr Hitler could not do so to save his soul from the perdition which is his due, and which he will doubtless incur. One might call Hitler a brute, were it not that one does not wish to speak disrespectfully of animals of finer grain than he. Nobody has ever been able to discover in him a redeeming quality—not even a redeeming vice. The man is not human. Three-quarters of his success thus far, both at home and abroad, has come from sheer inability to believe that such a monster has been allowed to live in the world for fifty years and more. When we first heard of him, we felt like the yokel who looked at a giraffe for the first time, and, observing the long neck and peculiar legs, cried out, "There ain't no such animal." It was hard to believe that there could be running at large such an animal as Adolf Hitler, and especially in a land of scholars like Germany.

We cannot prove it, of course, but we suspect, if the truth could be ascertained, that a majority of the German people would be glad to know that he were dead. Things are not always what they seem, and persons who have been in Germany of late do not hesitate to say that under their breath many Germans do a bit of muttering; if they felt certain of kindly treatment they might, and we believe that unnumbered thousands of Germans would, welcome the entrance of a triumphant British army on the streets of Berlin. Nobody at heart loves a tyrant, and Hitler and Mussolini both are tyrants of a sort such as none of the ancients ever knew, after they had arrived at the stage of civilization.

How Georges Clemenceau Got Statuette At His Own Price

One day in a little village in the East Indies, Georges Clemenceau noticed a little statuette, and said to the dealer, "I like your statuette. How much is it?"

"Because it's you," he answered 75 rupees."

"Forty-five rupees," said Clemenceau.

"Impossible," said the dealer, indignantly. "I'd rather give it to you."

"Agreed," Clemenceau took the statuette, stuffed it into his pocket and said, "You are extraordinarily kind, and I thank you. But it is quite evident that this gift can only come from a friend. Consequently you won't take it amiss if I in turn make you a gift."

"Naturally not."

"Well here are forty-five rupees to use in good works."

The dealer took the money.

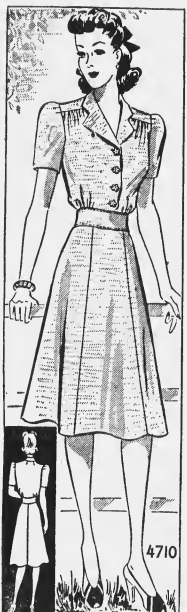

Britain's Invasion Barges

Britain has invasion barges of her own, it has been disclosed, and used them in the raid on the Lofoten islands of Norway. The press carried pictures of one of the barges nearing the snowy shore. SHIRTWAISTER WITH WAIST-BAND

By Anne Adams

Career woman... home-girl—whatever your occupation, type or age, this trim style will fit right into your Spring wardrobe plans. Pattern 4710 is a new Anne Adams version of an old favorite—the shirtwaister—and one of the snappiest styles you've ever seen! Have it in linen, in shantung or in a gay cotton. The most becoming feature is that waist-girdle that snugly encircles your supple waist. Smart, too, are the easy bodice lines, gathered above the girde and below the tailored yokes. The collar is a classic notched style. Use novelty buttons down the bodice fastening. And cut your sleeves in short, three-quarter or long style.

Pattern 4710 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Size Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E. Winnipeg.

Mineral Production

Mineral Output of Canada Passes The Half-Billion Mark

During the first full calendar year of the war, Canada's mineral production reached an all-time high. W. H. Loease, chief of the mining, metallurgical and chemical branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, told delegates to the Canadian Mining and Metallurgy Institute convention at Montreal.

Preliminary estimate of the 1940 production was valued at $529,179,434, compared with $474,602,059 the year before. This was the first time in the history of Canada that the production figure had passed the half-billion mark, Mr. Loease added.

TOY TRADE HELPING EMPIRE WAR EFFORT

Canadian and British toy manufacturers, with an eye toward wider export trade, are striking into markets previously dominated by the Axis powers. These tanks and tractor are among the motorized military toys which faithfully reproduce the methods in modern total war shown at Toronto's toy fair. They come from the largest toy factory in the empire. Management of the British firm reports that no shipment has been destroyed by submarine warfare, and the increasing export of toys brings Canada and the empire much needed foreign exchange for conduct of the war.

Idea Spread Across Canada

Station Gardens Started By An Ontario Agent In 1882

John Caesar reached his 90th milestone recently and looked back on a life rich in friendship. All along the right-of-way of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Atlantic to Pacific are station gardens which might not have bloomed without him. For John Caesar is best known as the man who instituted the practice of beautifying Canadian railway stations with flowers and shrubbery.

Back in 1882 when he raked up the rubbish littering the grounds of the Markdale, Ont., station of the Canadian Pacific, where he was agent from 1871 until 1917, and planted a few five-cent packages of flower seeds, John Caesar hardly supposed his idea would soon spread out to embrace the whole of the railway set-up of the Dominion, but he lived to see stations in all provinces so beautified.

Later, when he retired from his post at Markdale, it was to become the C.P.R.'s first travelling florist. He travelled to all parts of the system superintending the planting of station gardens. Out of his efforts grew the present horticultural department of the railway, which annually holds contests to determine which are the best gardens and to award prizes.

Glacier Near Juneau, Alaska, Thrills Travellers By Sheddling Berg

Taku glacier, near Juneau, the capital of Alaska, is nearly 9,000 feet in width where it faces Gastineau channel, 200 feet high at that point and extends inland for 35 miles. It is a live glacier, which frequently thrills the traveller by shedding a massive berg and casting it into the sea with a great splash. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

CHRIST'S COMMISSION

Golden text: Behold, I send forth the promise of my Father upon you. Luke 24:49.

Lesson: Luke 24:36-53.

Devotional reading: Isaiah 52:7-12.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Appears to Affrighted Disciples, Luke 24:36-43. On the evening of the first Easter, while the two to whom Jesus had made himself known at Emmaus in the breaking of bread were telling the apostles in Jerusalem of their wonderful talk with the risen Lord (which will be our lesson on Easter Sunday), he himself suddenly appeared in their midst and gave them the customary form of greeting, "Peace be unto you." They supposed that they were seeing a spirit, "a form recognizable as that of Jesus, but of Jesus was risen, but come from the world of the dead disembodied, or only with an apparent body." They doubted the reality of Jesus' presence among them.

"Why are ye troubled? and wherefore do questionings arise in your heart?" Jesus asked, and then to reassure them, to convince them that he was not a disembodied spirit, he bade them see and touch his hands and his feet. "A spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye behold me having," he told them. While they were still disbelieving for joy ("a curious yet real state of mind") he asked for something to eat, and when they gave him a piece of broiled fish he ate before them. "There are senses in which all this is utterly inexplicable," Dr. G. Campbell Morgan admits, but adds, "But that does not say 'It was not actual.' And then he finds a scriptural explanation in Paul's words in the fifteenth chapter of First Corinthians, verses 35-44.

Christ's Last Words Before His Final Departure, Luke 24:44-49. It is impossible to be certain of the sequence of events during the forty days, but from a study of all the reports it seems that between verses 43 and 44 occurred the second appearance to all the disciples when Thomas was present, the departure for Galilee and appearance to the seven disciples while fishing, and to many disciples on a mountain in Galilee.

Professor Riddle inclines to the view that "verse forty-four was said on the evening of the resurrection day, that verse forty-five covers up the instruction of the interval, the 'speaking of the things of God' Acts 1:3, and that verse forty-six introduces the account of the discourse on Ascension Day, more fully recorded by Luke in Acts 1:4-8."

Gardening

Where space is limited it is advisable to follow a strictly inflexible layout with lawns and flower gardens. The central portion of the garden should be clear of beds and shrubbery and devoted entirely to grass. Around the edges will be grouped beds of perennial and annual flowers, leading up to shrubs and vines along the walls or fence boundaries. This open centre adds to the effect of spaciousness and if the right boundaries are softened and partially hidden so much the better and intriguing.

Where the garden is larger, experts advocate screening off the portion by bringing forward the surrounding shrubbery at one point, or using a hedge, wall or trees, so that the whole affair will not be entirely visible from any one point of observation. This will add further to that air of spaciousness and also provide a secluded corner or two for children's swing or sandbox or, possibly, a seat or trellis-covered table where, on hot summer days, the family may enjoy outdoor meals.

Transplanting

In the hotbed, greenhouse, or flat box in sunny windows, when the plants have developed their second set of leaves they should be thinned out. Before being transplanted outside they should be hardened in a cold frame which is simply a hot-bed without any heating material.

Soil Hints

Experienced gardeners caution against rushing the season. It does soil no good to be dug while still too wet. It is liable to become lumpy, later perhaps to bake hard. With heavy clay soil early working is particularly dangerous.

A good test is to look at one's shoes. If these become muddy after a tramp through the garden, it is best to go back to the fireside and read a seed catalogue or a book. Soil ready to work crumbles, never squeezes into mud.

Texture of both heavy and light soil will be immensely improved by the digging in of well-rotted manure, decaying leaves or other garden refuse. This sort of thing adds humus and moisture absorbing powers to light soil, makes the heavy kind more amenable to spade and fork.

Against Big Headlines

Erwin D. Canham, manager editor of the Christian Science Monitor, is against "six-inch banner headlines" to "catch street sales." He said in an address at Boston that "the constant competitive effort to shock citizens into buying a paper is among the greatest enemies of press freedom because they blunt the public trust in newspapers."

It takes a lot more than looking down on others to place you above them.

Health

LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

DANGER SIGNALS

If you tire too easily, lose weight, have indigestion or a cough that hangs on... look out, it's a danger sign, and precautions should be taken against tuberculosis, warns the Health League of Canada, broadcasting a health message to Canadians. "Tuberculosis is a sneaking disease, and seldom strikes in the open, according to the health message. 'It creeps on the victim like a thief, casting shadows before him."

"Tiredness is not so much the result of work or play. It is a fatigue that comes on easily or for no good reason, a lazy feeling that lasts. It means something is wrong."

"A relish for food is a sign of good health. Loss of weight, poor appetite and indigestion go together. A cough that hangs on in spite of usually controlling remedies is a danger sign."

"Sometimes the first sign of tuberculosis is a spitting of blood. It may be only a streak in the sputum. But don't be led away by the suggestion that the blood comes from the gums or the nose."

"Sharp pains in the chest wall may be due to pleurisy and pleurisy in adults may be one of the first signs of tuberculosis," the message continues. "Nervousness, disturbed sleep and a run-down condition mean a departure from good health and demand investigation."

"Tuberculosis can be cured by persistence. Rest, fresh air, and sunshine are essential. The mind must be trained to relax. The sanatorium is the best place for tuberculosis. All the new agencies of cure are available. The tuberculosis patient able to do to-day has, if his disease is not too far advanced, an excellent opportunity for recovery. Even advanced cases are, in many instances, afforded opportunity for an extended and comfortable life."

News Items Of War Work From Several Sources

Citizens of St. Pierre and Miquelon, the two small islands off the Newfoundland coast which belong to France, have clubbed together to aid British and French victims of the war in Europe.

South Africa is turning out 60 m.p.h. armored cars, with gun-turrets and bullet-proof tractor-grip tires, in sufficient numbers to supply her own armies, and also to contribute to the equipment of the British forces in North Africa.

For one peppercorn rent, Queen Salet of Tonga has given 160 acres to the British Government for an airbase. Tongans have subscribed $6,000 for a British fighter aircraft and formed a defence force trained by a New Zealand sergeant-major. (The island of Tonga lies in the Pacific, south west of Fiji. It is an independent kingdom, under British protection.)

Royal Air Force officers in Singapore are of opinion that the standard achieved by Malay's first squad of recruits for the Air Force is higher than that usually attained at a peace time elementary flying school in Great Britain.

Appeal on the Rand for 2,000 donors to provide blood serum for South African soldiers had an immediate and enthusiastic response. Only a few hours after the appeal was launched, 100 donors enrolled.

Mass Production Methods of Building Ships Being Studied

Mass production methods of shipbuilding are being studied by the department of munitions and supply with a view to their adoption in Canada. If practicable, Munitions Minister Howe told the House of Commons.

He said these methods, which involve making parts of ships in different plants and bringing them together for assembly, had been tried for a short time in the United States in the first Great War, but not long enough to prove their practicability.

He said he had been advised by British officials not to rush too quickly into expansion of shipbuilding owing to the difficulty of getting skilled workers.

This was the end, Nancy Thorne told herself. She'd never be able to tell anyone what she'd seen now. She'd never be able to stop what Hugo Blake was doing.

He dragged her back in the direction of the truck, one hand over her mouth.

As they emerged from the thick hedge bordering the field, Nancy saw the trucks standing there with the swarthy, anonymous looking men standing near them. Their eyes were on her as Blake dragged her onto the road, and she could feel the tension in the air. Blake still said nothing, just pulled her along, but in the fierceness of his grip on her wrist she could feel his burning anger.

One of the men in the group stepped forward. Nancy had never seen him before; she assumed he was the driver of the other truck. He was heavy-built with broad shoulders and thick, heavy hands. His dark, deeply lined eyes bored into her, and she had the fearful feeling that his hands itched to seize her by the throat. She was thankful for a fleeting instant that Blake was there; then suddenly she realized that he was no protector, he was the man who had said that Grimshaw's death couldn't be helped, had to be. He was that cold, that callous; death was the reward for opposing him or the ends he sought.

The man who had come forward spoke in a low voice, and in his tone Nancy could recognize fear almost as great as her own. But his fear was different because it wasn't quaking, shaky. His voice was desperate, and she knew that his answer to anyone who put fear into him would be spoken with violence, probably with a gun. The police! She thought of them again, down there near the car. . . If only they would come down this road, find the trucks—find her—before it was too late.

"What's that police car doing down there, Blake?"

"They haven't seen us. They're investigating a car parked down there. Probably the one this girl followed us in."

Another man spoke. "Better get in the truck and drive on. You can get back on the highway from this road."

"The girl—"

"We'll take care of her."

Blake seemed to hesitate for an instant, then pushed her roughly in the direction of the other men.

Suddenly there was a sharp cry from one of the men in the little group. Nancy's captor dropped her arm and started upward.

Over their heads the gleaming lights of an airplane were circling very low. At almost the same instant the police car shot forward, coming straight up the road toward them. Behind it another pair of headlights appeared, and another. They seemed to be coming terribly fast.

There was a muffled exclamation from one of the men. Hugo Blake turned and ran toward the cab of the Bristol truck. Before he could climb into it the sound of a shot rang out.

Not thinking at all, Nancy turned and ran as fast as she could, running blindly, desperately, with no idea of where she was running. Anywhere, only to get away. In an instant she was off the road, running through a tangle of grass and brambles that threatened to trip her at every step.

Behind she could hear the sound of gunfire, and the roar of cars. Someone fired in her direction and instinctively she dropped to the ground, hiding her face in the long grass.

She dared not look up again. Suddenly the sounds ceased and there was a moment of terrible quiet. Then the sound of voices came from the distance.

"Where's the girl?"

"She ran off in the field somewhere."

"Find her."

Somewhat she managed to get to her feet and stumble on into the darkness. Behind her she heard running feet; with her last ounce of strength she broke into a run. The sounds behind her came nearer and nearer, she made one last, desperate gasping effort to escape just as a pair of strong hands seized her.

"Nancy!"

She turned around and looked into the white, anxious face of Tom Cantwell.

For an instant she was sure she was going to faint. As she stood there, feeling the strength of his hands on her arms, slowly her breath came back.

"Nancy, darling!"

He caught her right in his arms, oblivious of the little group of interested spectators. "Good lord, Nancy, the danger of what you've done!" He drew a long breath, held her out at arm's length and said, "If it hadn't been for you we'd have never caught up with them this trip."

"We!"

He paid no attention. "We didn't know this trip would be the one. We were caught off guard. I was out at the plant though, planning to follow the truck and make sure—and when I went to get my car it was gone."

"How. I stole it."

"Yes, I'm aware of that. I didn't know it then, though. I reported it and got the police after it. Meanwhile—" he drew a long breath, "Iris told you to John Bristol. They got in touch with me right away."

"Tom—listen. You weren't—you weren't one of them?"

He stared at her. "Is that what you've been believing?" For a moment his gray eyes blazed, then they softened suddenly. "You poor baby! What you must have been through!" He held his hand tight. "Go on. Tell me—"

"Well, we had to work fast. The state police were rounded up and we started to trail the truck. I guessed then you had taken my car. Meanwhile that plane you saw overhead was circling around watching for the truck. But it was the police looking for the stolen car over the two-way radio, we passed the word on by radio to the boys in the plane, and we got here." He squeezed her hand. "It was nice quick work."

He put an arm about her waist and they began walking slowly back to the road. On the way she told him what she had heard there at the loading platform, and what she had seen out on the road.

Tom nodded. "It was easy to see what they were trying to do. Well, they won't do it."

"Tom—Hugo Blake—"

His arm tightened around her waist. "He won't try anything like this again. Not ever."

But it was not until the next evening that Nancy learned the whole story. She learned it riding slowly along the lake front in Tom Cantwell's car, her head leaning on his shoulder.

"A few of us, including Pat, decided to do some amateur work to

ACT FAST WHEN A COLD THREATENS

Use This 3-PURPOSE Medicine

At the very first sniff of a cold, or a sign of a cold just a few drops of Vicks Vapo-rinol on each nostril. If used in time, Vapo-rinol's stimulating action actually helps prevent many colds from developing.

And remember this, when a head cold makes you miserable, or transient congestion "fills up" nose at night, spoils sleep—Vapo-rinol gives valuable help as it (1) shrinks swollen membranes, (2) relieves irritation, (3) helps flush out nasal passages, clearing clogging mucus. Enjoy the relief it brings.

And out what was happening to apparently good airplanes that unexpectedly crashed for no understandable reason. Pat's end was to work out at the airport, and I got a job in the Bristol plant.

"Honestly, Nancy, I didn't mean to get you into it this deep. The reason you weren't told anything about it was to protect you. I had an idea that if Blake thought you might be drawn into his dirty game he'd start work on you—and he did. That's why I advised you to do any work he asked you to do."

Nancy hid her face. "I thought you were—in with him."

"It's hard to believe you really thought that." He was silent for a minute. "But, anyway, you succeeded in doing what I hadn't done—you got actual evidence against the sabotage ring."

"Here's what they were doing: Just the tiniest bit of difference in a certain die used in the manufacture of airplane motors would mean every motor turned out would be defective—and yet not detectably so. That meant every airplane with one of those motors would fall unexpectedly, possibly at some crucial time."

She drew a long, sighing breath, thinking of Pat, of Iris, of those tiny planes so brave and bright against the sky.

"It was a clever scheme, except that they didn't get away with it. The defective dies were manufactured elsewhere secretly, exact duplicates of the correct ones save for that tiny difference. The exchange was to be made during the delivery to the plant where the motors are manufactured. Well, the exchange wasn't made, and there won't be a second chance."

She was silent for a minute. "Tom, did Hugo Blake kill Grimshaw?"

"Yes. The police made a ballistics test on the gun he carried and the bullet that killed Grimshaw."

Silence fell. Tom drove onto a little point of land overlooking the lake and stopped there.

"Had enough adventure to last you for a while?" he asked at last.

She nodded. "Enough to last me forever."

Again, a silence. Far out over the lake a tiny plane appeared, its lights twinkling brightly against the dark sky. They watched it while it circled overhead and disappeared into the shadows.

"No—I take that back," Nancy said suddenly. "I'm beginning to be envious again, thinking of Iris and of Pat, flying up there—"

She sighed softly. "Tom, you'd better be taking me home. There's a hard day at the office to-morrow."

"Nancy, would you consider a better job?"

She frowned. "What do you mean?"

He cleared his throat. "Well—for an amateur spy, you did pretty well. But I think you ought to save your sleuthing activities for private life—keep it on an amateur basis, so to speak."

"Tom, what do you mean?" She knew perfectly well.

He laughed softly into the darkness and took her in his arms.

"I'd like you to kind of keep an eye—a friendly, wifely eye—on me for the rest of our lives."

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER

Buck it up right now and feel like a million!

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper movement to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "indigestion," headache, dizziness, drugged out all the time.

For over 35 years thousands have won prompt relief from these troubles—without Fruit-A-Tives. So can you now. Try Fruit-A-Tives—you'll be simply delighted how quickly you'll feel like a new person, happy and well again. 25c, 50c.

Clearing House For Stamps

British Philatelic Association Controls All Exports and Imports

A small room in a West End office is now the clearing house for every foreign postage stamp leaving or entering Great Britain. It is the office of the British Philatelic Association. The association was commissioned by the board of trade with the job of controlling all exports and imports of foreign stamps.

Controller is Cuthbert Grieg, secretary of the British Philatelic Association, who has never collected a stamp and has not been a dealer himself. But he has an expert knowledge of the value of stamps.

Need for this rigid control of stamp exports was shown to the British government with the arrival of refugees from Poland, Holland, Belgium and France. Unable to bring any substantial cash assets with them, they came to England with their stamp collections—many specially purchased before they left their own countries—hidden in all kinds of secret places.

They became cash assets to them as soon as they arrived in London because of the market that is always open for foreign stamps. Even before the war it was known that people in Germany were buying stamps and sending them to England and the United States to obtain credit in these countries.

Twelve philatelic experts form the control committee. They thoroughly examine each stamp sent in by the exporters whether valued at a half-penny or £100.

In And Out Club

Odd Name Given To Hostel For Soldiers In England

Members of a unit of the Canadian Ordnance Corps in the south of England are daily guests of an institution bearing a remarkable name. It's known as the "In and Out Club."

But don't be alarmed, its anything but what the name implies. As a matter of fact, supervision of the club is under the austere direction of no less a person than the vicar of St. Martin's, and help is supplied voluntarily by the ladies of the parish.

B. W. Wonnacott, of Charlottetown, P.E.I., attached to the 2nd Canadian Division as supervisor of the Canadian Legion War Services, reports that the club activities, which include indoor games, small concert parties, and two dances a week. Refreshments are always on hand and there is an abundant supply of legion envelopes and stationery available for use at all times.

The "In and Out Club," says Mr. Wonnacott, is mostly "in," because the average daily attendance is always more than 400 men. It has also become a favorite rendezvous of the officer of the unit, who "enjoy the democratic atmosphere of the place."

Almost Ruined His Career

But President Roosevelt Won Out In Spite Of Handicap

Twenty years ago President Roosevelt little realized that he would one day be the most powerful man in the world.

After supervising the demobilization of the U. S. Navy he had been attacked by infantile paralysis as a result of a bath in ice-cold water.

His legs had been put into the steel braces which he still wears, and he moved about, as he still does, in a self-propelled chair.

To a distinguished English visitor who expressed the hope of a speedy recovery, he said: "Thank you, but my career is at an end. I can never surmount this handicap."

"Nonsense," said his visitor. "With all your other advantages you might well be President one day"—a prophecy which Mr. Roosevelt brushed aside as not worth discussing.—News of the World.

Changing The Language

Too Many Slang Words Are Creeping Into The Dictionary

There was a time when a slang word, by crashing the dictionary, scored a victory for the common speech, and the multitude cheered at the defeat of the crusty old fust-budgers who guarded the purity of our language in the pages of Webster's Unabridged.

To-day the situation is reversed. A new-found liberalism has changed the whole complexion of the big word book.

For instance, the verb, "commentate," useless synonym of "comment," is listed. So is "light-complexioned" for "light-complexioned."

We find "hung" as a permissible past participle of intransitive verb "hang" ("hanged" is what our grim English teacher told us was correct. We find "ready" admitted as a verb (ugh!) and "try" as a noun.

This is an insidious tendency. Unabridged dictionaries are growing too tolerant, too responsive to every vagrant trend of popular word-making.

Such smacks of appeasement of the man-in-the-street, a transparent attempt to show him that dictionary editors are good fellows and not strict curmudgeons. We're agin' such spineless receptivity.—Minneapolis Star-Journal.

Banish Worry

Secret Of Long Life Said To Be A Cheerful Spirit

You won't grow old as fast, and you may live longer, if you don't worry. That's a conclusion of the American Club for Research on Aging.

Most of us regard sickness and infirmities, diet and overwork as causes of decrepitude in the twilight years, and so they are. But other things burn up our energy, bring crows-feet around the eyes and lower our vitality, and they're things we can do with a little self-discipline and control; overstrained emotions, habitual anxiety, apprehension, despondency.

The apy octogenarian who tells you his secret of hearty old age is a dish of oatmeal every morning, or a daily walk around the block, probably doesn't know what the real secret is. Analyze a happy and healthy oldster and you'll likely find a personality that has banished worry.

The Real Contest

British Factory Workers Will Win Race Against Nazi Factories

Behind the combat of Hurricane and Messerschmitt, says the Daily Express, London, is the real contest: British industry against Nazi industry, British factory worker against German factory worker. They have met many times, and in many fields before, and in this cause the Briton will not fail. The Nazi makes weapons for his leaders to conquer the world. The Briton makes weapons for men to fight for their freedom.

HOME SERVICE

BY WRITING DULL LETTERS YOU MAY LOSE FRIENDS

Gay Notes Would Hold Her Beau

"Why don't you write?" Many a girl has cooed a promising friendship with dull letters and never realized it.

Even old friends will forget how attractive you are if your letters just plod along: "I was glad to get your note. . . I'm still pretty busy." As for new admirers—they fairly freeze.

And you could so easily charm—knowing a few writing tricks. One is to imagine you're talking. Your pen almost starts by itself: "What a treat your letter was!"

Then just bubble along, giving the news: "Wait till you taste my chicken creole! In my Friday cooking class I've learned to be a regular temptress!"

Keeping friends, going places, getting jobs—they so often depend on letters! And you can lose too much by not knowing correct forms.

Beginning "My dear Mr. Hay," of course end with "Sincerely yours," but after "Dearest Nancy" natural to write on "Lovingly yours." And you'd never sign "Miss Doris Denny," but just "Doris Denny."

Learn the happy, profitable art of letter-writing. Our 32-page booklet gives right usage, sample types of friendly and business letters, vocabulary aids for lively writing.

Colonel William Donovan Has Visited Many Countries On Mission

Prime Minister Winston Churchill recently took an American to see King George. The American, athletic, modest-mannered and 57, was once known as "Wild Bill" of the "Fighting 69th"—Colonel William J. Donovan. It was the Colonel's third visit to London within a year. He was there last August, for reasons believed closely linked to American foreign policy. He returned last October on another mission, then journeyed eastward. The mission's purpose has never been told, but some think the colonel is serving as President Roosevelt's eyes in troubled zones. He has seen much.

In the last two months the Colonel has been to Cairo, Alexandria, Athens, Sofia, Belgrade, Ankara, Madrid and Lisbon, and has visited Dublin. In most of these cities he has talked with the heads of state, but he has said little for publication. Only two mishaps have marred his travels. The French apologetically declined to let him pass through Syria, and in Sofia he lost his wallet. It was quickly recovered by Bulgarian police.—New York Times.
